HOT LAPS

Message from the President

Ah! The dog days of summer are here, its sweltering outside. To top things off show season is in full swing. I hope everyone is having a good time out there, I sure have been. I drove out to the west coast and back did some sight seeing in Monterey and San Francisco, California...found a stretch of road just north of the Golden Gate Bridge that makes the "Tail of the Dragon" seem straight by comparison.

With September just around the corner, we need to get ready for our annual All Ford Show, plus we're doing an Open Track event as well in conjunction with it. We'll need LOTS of volunteers to handle set up, registration, and judging, not to mention corner workers. Please come out and support YOUR club! Show off your Mustang...or other FORD POWERED Vehicle. These events should be fun for everyone, whether showing your car or taking some laps. I can smell the gas, rubber, and worn brake pads already.

Happy Mustangin' everyone
Dave Grathwohl

Charleston, SC July 20-23, 2007 by Terri Roach

We started our journey, as always, at the Cracker Barrel in Lebanon. After filling our bellies with food and coffee, we hit the road. Jim "Dad" Chism was leading the way. We detoured through the mountains and though the weather had been nice all day, it began to rain in the mountains. That was fine though because as you ascended into the clouds, it made for some really cool pics. Finally after 14 hours on the road, we arrived at our destination. I thought ahead and brought snacks and cokes for the room. What I didn't anticipate was the block walk and flight of stairs with luggage and grocery sacks! haha "Aunt D" aka Deloris said we looked like a bunch of hobos. haha

Saturday began at 8:30am with breakfast. We then took a 6 block walk down to Ft Sumter museum and dock. Inside the building was pics, info, and a model of the fort and from the pier, one could see Patriot Point across the bay. The USS Yorktown was sitting at dock, and man was that thing HUGE!!! After a short ride by boat, we landed at Ft. Sumter. The first shots of the Civil War were fired from this fort. There are still shrapnel and bullets in the walls and some damage from cannons left. It is amazing to be standing on the same ground and looking at the same walls that someone else did over 100 years ago!! After walking around separately for an hour, we headed back in search of Bubba Gump's Restaurant. While waiting for the trolley, Taren started a joke that ran all weekend. Chad was restlessly waiting, and Taren said that we would take him on a Snipe Hunt. Well that opened a can of worms. He was asking what a snipe is and where do you find them. We all took turns giving our input and cracking ourselves up. The stories kept getting larger and wilder.

Over lunch, we shared our experiences and impressions of the fort. After lunch, I said I am going on a carriage ride if it kills me. So we all went. We rode around getting a history lesson of the town and people. The best part was the two mules' antics the whole ride. Law and Tar (Order and Nicotine were retired) fought like two kids, tried to take a short cut, and finally gave up and pulled over at the curb. It was quite entertaining. We walked all day and headed back for some R&R. Taren, Jim, and I decided we would go on the late ghost tour at 10pm.

Now the ghost tour was fun, but the walk back was better. Jim turned down a dark alley at 11pm in the projects no less. We were walking fast to get out of there, when my leg cramped up and I could hardly walk. Jim is yelling to "come on", Taren with her bad hip is looking like the Hunchback of Notre Dame, and I am walking like Igor dragging the cramped leg. Jim comes flying out of this alley and literally grabs the side of cab driving by. Well Taren comes out yelling "why ya running Jim?" and I am yelling "don't leave me!" I'm sure this cabby thought we were nuts!! After walking from 8:30am to 11pm and having leg cramps all night, Taren and I stayed in the room Sunday while everyone else went to Patriot Point.

Sunday afternoon, we all meet at the HL Hunley building for our 3pm tour. Now that was something to see!! We weren't allowed to take pictures because of the chemicals the submarine was in, but there was a display area and mock up model to climb in out front. I barely fit in the model, and to think that the 8 men that piloted this sub were 6ft tall! This is the first submarine AND the first submarine to sink a ship in battle. They never made it back to shore and it took 135 years to find it! Absolutely fascinating!!

After the days history lesson, we decided to go for dinner. We all went back to the garage, and "Uncle Milty", "Aunt D", Taren, and I refused to walk another step and took the car downtown. We went to Hyman's Seafood restaurant. The food was fabulous, but the conversation was better. We thought the snipe hunting expedition was a dead subject, but Chad brought it up again. Well, that led to more stories and laughs. We told him we had the permit bought and boat rented. We were going to the swamps at 1am. We even told him that Milton is the World Champion Snipe Hunter. Ask to see his Championship Ring. hahaha Everyone in the restaurant was looking at us and the owner of the restaurant came up to see what was going on. He wanted to know if we were a family and if Milton was the head of that family. Well Milton said he wasn't taking responsibility for that one. He then gave us some coupons and well wishes. We casually window shopped for awhile and then headed in for the night. We all met in the lounge and reviewed our fabulous weekend, had some more laughs, and then turned in for the night.

The trip home was long with construction, a wreck that shut down the interstate, and a detour around the back roads of Knoxville (thank God for Milton), and I locked myself out of the car for 30 minutes at lunch. Who knew that a Ford truck key would open a Cobra door, but we'll just keep that between us. I do believe though, that we laughed more on this trip than the one last year. It is two weeks later, and I am still talking about it! The town is steeped in history and Southern Charm, and our group had more fun than should be allowed! I am ready for another, except, I will definitely have to exercise some!!! My legs were killing me, but I would do it all over again today. So for those of you that didn't go, these are few of the stories. And next year, I want to see more of you. There are so many stories and funny stuff that happens, you just have to be there!! What happens in Charleston, stays in Charleston. Hey Jason and Linda-GP!!!
